In PPS Galeković and several joined companies we were using on-premise DMS system for several years. Although we experienced benefits from such a system, we were unable to expand to our needs because of the several factors. First is as usual the price of implementation, but for us the biggest problem was a lack of internal IT personnel/Project leaders that could lead and implement changes needed. Most of our IT resource were spend on ongoing support. Our needs only grow, and this was amplified during the COVID lockdown periods where we needed to support our staff working from home. So, at the beginning of 2021. we decided to try Sky.Flow Online platform and if possible, migrate our projects there.

We had two archives that could be directly mapped to Sky DocPortal functionalities and two more that we wanted as a custom solution. For all four of them, we got archives online only a few days after the meeting. Sciomagis team enabled us to focus on what we needed immediately, implement it, and set up our scanners to delivery documents to Sky Platform. This was a great help for staff working from home. A big bonus is that we had no investment in application, servers, OS or database licenses, and the monthly payment is less than the maintenance of the old system. Our IT personnel is also free of all tasks. Later on, we had few modifications that were provided without interruption to our work. Currently, we are expanding our Sky.Flow usage to the all-other application of the platform.

Personally, and in the name of the company, I would recommend Sciomagis, Sky.Flow platform, and their project leader Davorin A. Dumančić to all companies in similar projects.
